Ivey unveils proposal to save Ala. tuition plan

Associated Press - December 1, 2009 3:04 PM ET

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) - State Treasurer Kay Ivey wants to shift part of the money in Alabama's private universities in Alabama. In return, they would guarantee tuition for the students in the plan.

Ivey unveiled her proposal Tuesday at the Alabama Statehouse. The state treasurer oversees the Prep Ivey made her announcement as a Republican candidate for governor. She said it would save the PAC

Ivey has not yet discussed her idea with university presidents.

Ivey's proposal calls for universities to get PACT money based on their past participation in PACT. PAC year colleges in Alabama. But it would stop payments to out-of-state universities after May 31, 2015.
